LAW FACULTY WELCOMES NEW PROFESSOR

Prof. Herbert Arthur Smith Comes From Oxford.

GOOD WAR RECORD.

Will Take Charge Of Common Law Branches Of Study At McGill.

The Law Faculty received an addition yesterday in the person of Professor Herbert Arthur Smith who has recently arrived from England to lecture at McGill in connection with the Common Law courses, particularly those comprised in course "B".

This department was established a year ago last spring the purpose being to meet the growing demand for instruction in common law branches which would fit a student to later practice in any of the common law provinces of Canada. Prior to that time there was no provision for those students who desired to study at McGill yet whose purpose it was to ultimately settle in one of the other provinces. Since the inauguration of the new department numerous applications for admittance to study have been received and at present there are twelve students who are registered in the Common Law course (course "B").

The necessity of securing the services of a professor to personally supervise this department has been apparent and this obvious necessity has culminated in the engagement of Prof. Smith who comes from Oxford with an enviable record both academically and as a lawyer, before the Bar.

Professor Smith was born in India on the 4th. August, 1885, the third son of Vincent A. Smith, C. I. E., M. A., Hon. D. Litt. (Dublin) and Vice-President of the Royal Asiatic Society.

Prof. Smith received his earlier education at Cheltenham College and later proceeded to St. John's College, Oxford. In 1908 he received his B. A. degree and in 1911 the degree of M. A. was conferred upon him. He particularly distinguished himself as an essayist being the author of the Chancellor's English Essay in 1909, winner of the Robert Herbert Memorial Prize (Colonial History) 1910 and receiving honorable mention for the Arnold Historical Prize in 1912.

Called to the Bar by the Inner Temple in 1909 Professor Smith had a brilliant (Continued on Page 2)

ELECTIONS HELD FOR MEDECINE '20

Class Has Good Start With Credit Balance.

At a meeting of the class of Medicine '20, held October 22nd, 1919, the following officers were elected:

President—G. R. Brow.
Vice-President—A. W. Young.
Secretary—R. B. Coulson.
Treasurer—O. C. Trainer.
Reporter—G. D. Little.
Representative to Medical Dinner Committee—Mr. Keith Gordon.

The report from the treasurer was read and showed a credit balance to be carried over. It was cheerfully accepted. Mr. Brow, the newly-elected president thanked the retiring officers for their work during the past year and expressed his desire that the class should co-operate with the new executive in carrying out the work for the present year.

SUCCESSFUL BAND PRACTICE

Last night's practice proved to be very successful and with the amount of enthusiasm shown the organization should be in fair shape for Monday.

A couple of practices should be held before then and these must be well attended. There are still a few men that have played in the band before that have not yet turned up those ones specially requested to be out at the next rehearsal. This also applies to any man who can play an instrument. Men, turn out at the Union for the next practice which will be announced later and help the rooters work along.

OF INTEREST TO STUDENTS.

Mr. Maurice Sheffer (late of the Ritz Dancing Studio) has opened the Castle School of Dancing in the Orpheum Theatre Building, and is offering all McGill students a special rate of twenty per cent reduction on the usual terms. The following rules were announced last night in connection with the rush this year. The Arts Sophomores and Freshmen will assemble at the Stadium on Friday afternoon at five p.m. and the Science men at five thirty. "Dad" Lamb will very likely be the referee and his decision will be final and must be obeyed. At the conclusion of the Science rush the field will be cleared.

- 2.—There shall be a Referee who shall be in full charge of the field and four assistants to aid him in supervising the play.

- 5.—The Sophomore year will be tied up at one quarter line on the field and will be in possession of five pennants the location must not at any time be concealed under the clothing.
- 6.—The Freshmen year will be lined up on the quarter line at the opposite end of the field.

- 18.—The Students' Council will appoint the Referee and his assistants.
- 19.—The Freshmen and Sophomore years will appoint the remaining officials from the upper classmen in their Faculty.
- 20.—Only class A men will be allowed to participate and on this occasion no man who will be taken part in Inter-Collegiate sports will be allowed to participate.

HARRIERS TO HOLD THEIR SECOND RUN

All Interested Should Train For Intercollegiate Run On Nov. 15.

The second run of the harriers for the present season will be held from the Stadium this afternoon at 5.15 sharp. As was the case last Monday the distance covered will be about three to four miles, and the pace slow enough to suit those who are out for the first time, and consequently not in the best of shape.

It is only by everyone turning out now and getting all the practice possible that we can develop a strong team for the intercollegiate run on Nov. 15th. All those who have done any running in the past are urged to be on hand as well as any new-comers who would like to break into one of the best and healthiest of sports. Even if a man fails to make the college team his running will not be in vain because it is the intention of the executive to pull off an inter-faculty meet about a week before the main event.

In common with other branches of sport in the college we are called upon this year to develop practically a new team. There is only one member who was in the last inter-collegiate run in 1914, and we have to depend on entirely new material for the remainder of the quintette. There are undoubtedly a great many men around college who would come out if they were only urged a little. The executive would like to go round and hunt them up personally, but this being impossible we are doing the next best thing and using the columns of the "Daily" to ask all runners and would-be runners to turn up at the Stadium this afternoon at 5.15 sharp. In addition to the nine men out last Monday and all others who would like to have a try at the game, the following are especially requested to be on hand: Hall, James, Levitt, Mack-H, Hamilton and C. Davis.

THE "LIT" REORGANIZED

After several years of only spasmodic activity, the Literary and Debating Society was re-organized Tuesday afternoon on what we have every reason to hope are new and more progressive lines. That the "Lit.", though it has more or less been kept in existence during the past four years, scarcely fulfilled the place in undergraduate activity for which it was designed, was largely due to the fact that the number of students who could be counted upon to support such an organization was entirely insufficient to enable the executive to undertake any very extensive programme.

The need for just an organization as the "Lit." at the University is indisputable. We have on more than one occasion maintained that the academic is but one side of college life, and that, while it is of course every responsible man's first and foremost intention and determination to make good in his studies, he cannot, if he is to derive the utmost benefit from his university course, neglect those other aspects of undergraduate life which in the end mean so much. The Literary Debating Society offers to every man an exceptional opportunity to develop his talents and sharpen his faculties along practical lines. Certainly every university man should, when occasion demands it, be capable of expressing himself in public in a creditable or at least a coherent manner. Furthermore the "Lit." offers much to the man who is essentially a listener. The discussions should comprise the handling of current topics of national and international scope, and the Society should make provision in its programme for the securing of a number of eminent speakers — men who are qualified to speak upon topics which would concern every student and thinker.

We repeat that there is an ample sphere for the Literary and Debating Society, and appeal on its behalf for the necessary and deserved support of this Student Body.

PROF. DU ROURE GIVES ADDRESS

Lecture At Ritz-Carlton On Literature In France After the War.

Professor Du Roure, of the Department of Modern Languages at McGill, gave a lecture to the Alliance Française, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last evening, on the subject of "French Literature After the War." The meeting was very well attended, many members of McGill's faculty and French societies being present.

As this was the first meeting of the Alliance this winter, the regular business of the Association preceded the speaker of the evening.

The representative of the Consulate-General of France opened the meeting with a few remarks on the aims and results of the work of the Alliance Française in cementing the bonds between France and French-speaking people all over the world. He was followed by Dr. Villard, who read the report of the Society for last year.

The executive of the Association for the coming year was then elected. The president-elect introduced Prof. Du Roure. He referred to his war record in the armies of the Republic.

M. Du Roure was greeted with prolonged applause. He remarked that it was ten years since he first spoke to a French audience in Canada, and that it was with mixed feelings that he again addressed a similar gathering after five years overseas, part of which was spent in a German prison. While in prison, Prof. Du Roure said he often thought and spoke to his fellow prisoners of Canada, which is a second home to him.

The lecture is given in answer to the often-heard question: "What is literary France writing about since the war?" It is hard to say, just yet, what form French literature will take in the next few years. France was shaken to the soul by the War. Events have moved more quickly than the thoughts of men. France's literary leaders of before the war are out of date. The young men who lived through the struggle are, many of them, dead, and those who survive are prematurely aged. The writers who will form the new literature of France are the younger generation; the young men who are just entering life.

In any event the dilettante school, the school of Anatole France, has passed. New France demands that this class of writing, dealing with the extraordinary individual, soul-analysis and moral considerations be done away with. Social questions, moral vital topics, interest the France of to-day. Barres, in his transition from the old school to the great questions of to-day, has shown the tendency of French literature.

There has been a flood of war-literature in France. The books written at the first of the war, dealing with the awakening of the nation, will doubtless live. But the great book on the war will not be written until years from now, when men can look at the struggle as a whole, and not see little incidents and phases of it alone. The later war literature is altogether too weak for its mighty subject. Magazine and newspaper articles will have none but historical value.

But until this war-literature appears, distraction is the need of France. Fiction is in demand. More comedies are required. The stage, especially shows this tendency. There is no doubt that the many foreign armies which occupied France, together with the low artistic taste of the "nouveaux-riches" in France, call for light comedy. In literature, the two most popular books since the war are by Pierre Bernard, and they deal with adventurous romance, and fantastic imagination. They are reminiscent of Alexandre Dumas, pere. Adventure is what France wants. The war veterans insist on it. The new literature must develop action in the next few years. France was being a great factor in helping along this course.

The one school of before the war which will live, is the school of spiritualism, of mysticism. Duhamel, in his latest books, shows the trend towards the spiritualistic school. The interests of the people in the struggle have turned to the spiritual side of life, and this is bound to be reflected in their literature.

It is the youth of France that will create this new literature. What form it will take, time alone can tell. But it is certain that whatever shape French literature takes is the form the literature of the world is going to adopt, because in this new literary renaissance, France, as always in the world of letters, will take the lead. The world looks to her for literary leadership, from her will come the new style that is to be.

THE MARITIME CLUB.

All students from the Maritime Provinces are requested to attend a meeting for the re-organization of the Maritime Club, at 5.30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24th, in Strathcona Hall.

Owing to the disturbed condition of affairs during the past three or four years, it was found impossible to successfully carry on the work of this society, but this year promises to be a record one in the history of the club.

In former years a number of very successful smokers, dances and dinners were held, and this year, with the proper support, it is expected to surpass all others.

All students from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, P. E. Island and Newfoundland are eligible for membership, and are advised to use this club as a means for meeting fellow students from the East.

Officers for the present session will be elected, so everybody turn out at 5.30 Friday, Strathcona Hall.

HISTORIANS HOLD THEIR FIRST MEETING

Mr. Tartak Of Siberian Forces Speaks.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

Discussed Present Condition Of the Russian Nation.

The Historical Club held its first meeting last night in Strathcona Hall. Mr. Tartak, of the Canadian Siberian Expeditionary Force was the speaker of the evening, and gave an enlightening account of the conditions in Siberia, particularly in the Eastern part.

Mr. Tartak opened his discussion by stating that he intended to show the changes which had taken place in the country rather than give his impressions of present conditions.

On arriving at Vladivostok his first effort was to find out what government was in power. To his surprise he was told that as far as the mass of the people were concerned there was no government. The newly-formed Siberian government was at war with the old Russian government and no one knew which to obey.

Perhaps the most striking change which has taken place is the complete disappearance of metallic money. Before the war Russia was rich in money but at the present time, so complete has been the change, that postage stamps are being generally used for small change. The country is flooded with paper money but it is absorbed, so to speak, by the peasants, who owing to the scarcity of tools and implements cannot use it for purchasing. This shows the dislocation of the economic and political situation in Siberia. The Rouble had fallen to one-fifth of its pre-war value and, during Mr. Tartak's stay, was continually on the decline.

Another striking change is the great shortage of textiles and machinery. Russia has great quantities of raw material, such as grain, minerals and cattle, but owing to the lack of transportation facilities cannot export them. Neither can she obtain the necessary imports.

A noticeable fact is that although paper is very scarce, yet there has been a general increase of newspapers. Before the war it was common for a city of fifty thousand inhabitants not to have a single newspaper. At the present time Vladivostok, a city of one hundred thousand, has six. Mr. Tartak drew attention to the fact that some of the Western Siberian papers were printed on wrapping paper, owing to the great scarcity of paper.

Education also has undergone a great change in regard to popular opinion. Several new universities were founded during the war, and great earnestness has been shown in regard to their work. Education is now regarded as the most important factor in saving Russia. It is interesting to note in this connection the interest that is being taken in foreign culture, language and literature.

Among the languages English ranks first in importance, and is being much more generally studied than ever before.

At the conclusion of his speech, the main points only of which have been mentioned, Mr. Tartak invited questions and several interesting points were discussed. Among these were the Bolshevik press, the meetings of the Soviet government and the lack of machinery and implements.

All who were present felt that an enjoyable and instructive evening had been spent, and that the realities of the Siberian situation had been brought home to them more clearly than ever before. The meeting was well attended and ten new members have already been taken in. The new men are: Greaves, Martin, Adair, Duncan, Murray, Smith, Cousins, Ross, Avison, Walter and Addy.

Will the girls who have not paid their class fees kindly do so at once to the secretary.

Montreal.

The Editor of the McGill Daily.

Mr. Editor:

Having also been one of the number who enjoyed a very pleasant time at The Damsant given at the R.V.C. last Saturday, I wish to fully endorse all that Qu'Appelle says in his letter of the 21st inst.

Yours truly,

H. T. B.

The Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:

During the course of his official visit to the City of Montreal, H.R.H. The Prince of Wales is to receive an honorary degree from McGill. The ceremony will take place about the noon hour, all students, it is to be expected, being exempted from lectures for the occasion.

Now the Prince is a young man and a university man in addition. Would it not be possible for us to give him a reception typical of a fine Canadian University. Such a reception as would impress itself vividly on his mind, so that he might have something more to remember McGill by than a mere parchment among many hundreds of others. The entire student body led by the rooters should turn out and form a guard of honor to escort him to the place where he is to receive his degree, to the accompaniment of McGill songs and yells, rendered with all the pep and lung-power we can muster. The Universities of the West have given him splendid ovations. Let's go one better and show him that McGill is second to none.

Yours sincerely,

"ICH DEIN."

October 22, 1919.

Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:

We hear of a Western Club, a Maritime Club and an Eastern Townships Club being formed; how about a Newfoundland Club.

It is the opinion of the ordinary Canadian that Newfoundland is on the edge of the Arctic circle, and that only two occupations exist there. There are about thirty or forty Newfoundlanders at McGill, and yet nobody realizes they are there. Isn't it time something was done?

All up, then, Newfoundlanders; and show you're alive. Get together.

Yours truly,

TERRA NOVA.

career as a lawyer. In December of 1909 he was elected a Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford to which office he was subsequently re-elected in 1917. In 1911 he was appointed a Law Lecturer at Wadham College and was Public Examiner in the University, 1913-1914.

Prof. Smith's record as a soldier is of equal brilliance with his accomplishments as a scholar and a lawyer. He was commissioned on the 12th of Dec. 1914 and after over two years of service was wounded at Bernafay Wood, on the Somme, on Aug. 19th, 1916. In November of the same year he was appointed Courts-Martial Officer in England in which capacity he served until April 1918. He was also connected with the War Office (Prisoners of War Branch) from May to November 1917.

In April 1918 Prof. Smith was sent to America on propaganda work in the performance of which he lectured extensively throughout the Southern States, later, on the signing of the armistice returning to England.

As an author on legal subjects Prof. Smith has, in spite of the interruptions of war and military obligations, already accomplished something. In addition to articles contributed to legal periodicals he published "The Law of Associations Corporate and unincorporate" in 1914, and at present has in the course of preparation a book on the history of the Supreme Court of the United States, "The American Supreme Court as an International Tribunal".

In short Prof. Smith comes to McGill with brilliant record and a law Faculty may well congratulate themselves upon the recent addition to their membership.

SOCIETE FRANCAISE MEETING

The Societe Francaise yesterday held the first social meeting of the session.

About sixty students were present, of whom the greater number were Freshmen. This was very encouraging, as the Freshmen, whom the Society desires to attract, are usually hard to reach.

After the constitution was read, Mlle. Touren explained the most important points, and welcomed the girls. Then they played French games, and sang French songs. One of the songs is the oldest in the French language.

and, as the air is delightful, it will probably be made the "official" song of the Societe.

After the singing, there was tea and dancing—always most welcome late in the afternoon.

The success of the meeting was due wholly to the charming way in which Mlle. Touren welcomed the new members, and helped to entertain them. She spared no effort in helping the students, and has become truly the inspiration of the society.

The Societe wishes also to thank the unknown donors of the delicious cakes that were provided for the tea.

RESERVATIONS FOR GAME AGAINST M.A.A.A. MONDAY

It Is Expected That Arrangements Will Be Completed
That Will Enable the Prince of Wales To Witness an Exhibition Game At the Stadium.

In connection with the exhibition game that has been planned for next Monday between McGill and M. A. A. A. at the Stadium has been announced that reservations for this game will be taken now by W. Lalanne, Secretary of the Students Council, who will be at the office in the McGill Union, every day. (Telephone Up. 433)

During the last few days negotiations have been entered into with the Prince of Wales with the view of getting him to attend this game, and it is expected that he will be able to be present to see the McGill machine in action although no definite word has been received as yet. Everything seems to indicate however that arrangements will be completed within twenty four hours, which will ensure the Prince's presence at the game.

This exhibition match will undoubtedly provide some very good rugby, as both teams are at the top of their form. The McGill team has been resting up since their victory at Kingston last Saturday, but they are now getting down to real work, while M. A. A. A. although defeated last week in a very close game, possess a formidable line-up. Altogether, the match is expected to give everybody a chance to see some high class rugby, and with the added attraction of the Prince's presence, a crowd that will tax the big Stadium to its utmost is expected to be on hand to witness the game.

DR. SYMONDS OPENS COURSE OF LECTURES

Doctrine Of Kingdom Of God
As Found In Old Testament.

An unusually large number of students were present at the second meeting of the Y.W.C.A. held yesterday afternoon in the Common Room, attracted there, no doubt, by the expectation of hearing the Reverend Doctor Symonds. The president, Miss Helen Nichol, opened the meeting with a short prayer, followed by a plea made on behalf of the Italian Mission, which is in great need of an organist, and an announcement of the supper to be given that the students may have an opportunity of meeting Dr. Robertson. Miss Nichol then introduced Dr. Symonds, who has so kindly consented to give the society a course of three lectures on the Doctrine of the Kingdom of God and its application to present day life.

Dr. Symonds, in opening his address, said that he would first speak on the Doctrine of the Kingdom of God as found in the Old Testament, taking up in his next lecture the question of the Doctrine of the Kingdom of God as found in the New Testament and concluding with its application to the circumstances of to-day. Dr. Symonds lamented the present method of Bible Study, characterized by the verse method, which gives no idea of the general significance of the work. He declared that people were afraid of modern methods which are seldom found outside of theological colleges. A spirit of inquiry is particularly necessary in the study of such a book as the Bible, which has profoundly influenced the civilization of Europe for centuries. Therefore Dr. Symonds declared his intention of taking up the study of the Doctrine of the Kingdom of God from the theological rather than the devotional point of view. He maintained that there is no problem of modern times which cannot be solved by a careful study of the teaching of Christ, concerning the Kingdom of God.

With a few masterful touches Dr. Symonds outlined the history of the Jews from the time of their progenitor, Abraham, through the days of Moses and the great judges, to the establishment of a kingdom. David was the typical King, and with him there was born the idea of a great Hebrew Kingdom to be the Kingdom of God. This idea became for them as vital a thing as the British Empire is for us and, even through the gloomy record of failures that followed, this idea persisted. Though tempted to despair the great Hebrew prophets clung to their belief that eventually such a kingdom would come to pass. That which they wrote in such circumstances must, therefore, be applied to their own day and not to the wars and troubles of our own time, as has so often been done. Apollyon is Nero, not Napoleon or the ex-Kaiser of Germany.

Dr. Symonds then quoted the 45th Psalm in which the King of Israel is described as the representative of God, and his throne as God's throne. He followed this with the famous passage from the book of Isaiah, prophesying a great king of the line of David, who shall reign with righteousness, and a state of perfect harmony, when the lion shall lie down with the lamb.

The speaker declared that every nation believes itself to be the chosen of God, though some nations, such as Germany, to a more intense degree than others. This belief tends to develop an exclusive idea of the kingdom of God; it had done so with the Jews. On the other hand it may develop an inclusive spirit, which is reflected in the last thirteen chapters of the book of Isaiah. Here Israel is to be light of the Gentiles, Daniel also sings of an ideal kingdom which shall include all the peoples of the earth. Dr. Symonds closed with a reference to the character of the Kingdom of God as found in the Old Testament. In it there was to be material plenty; there would be no outcry in the streets; the youths were to be straight and strong; the maidens as beautiful as the polished cornerstones of the temple. Happy would be those whose god was Jehovah.

LOYOLA SQUAD. DEFEATED BY JUNIOR TEAM

Loyola Picked Up Toward the Last But Failed To Score.

The Junior McGill Rugby Team scored their second victory against Loyola this season winning by a score of 13-0 yesterday afternoon. The game, which was played on Loyola ground, was a one-sided affair. McGill's men tore through the Loyola line time and again. They showed not only superior knowledge of the game, but much better training. The result of careful coaching is visible in their playing.

For about three minutes at the first, play was at the McGill end of the field; but this state of affairs did not last long. The McGill men soon got into their stride, and tore down the gridiron, through the Loyola line-up, for a touch-down. Wilson failed to convert. Score McGill 6 Loyola 0.

For the rest of this quarter the play was entirely at the Loyola end of the field. Taylor did some fine bucking in this part of the game.

The second quarter was practically the same. Play was entirely on Loyola ground. Wilson was kicking in good style and Taylor was still doing fine work. After about four minutes of play, Wilson kicked a beautiful one which went across for a rouge.

Score McGill 6 Loyola 0.
Shortly before the close of the quarter Wilson again booted one for a rouge. Score McGill 7 Loyola 0.

The third quarter started off with everything going McGill's way as before. Quilan, who had been doing fair work all along, seemed to make special efforts in this quarter. He made some really fine plays. Wilson again tore through, this time for a touch-down. Score McGill 12 Loyola 0.

A few seconds afterwards, one of the Loyola men, Collins, fell and was badly cut in the head. He gamely refused to retire, and from that moment Loyola seemed to revive. Collins personally made several excellent plays, and when the whistle went for three-quarter time, the game had shifted uncomfortably close to McGill's end of the field.

The last quarter was more even than the first three. Loyola was playing much better than before. Wilson managed to kick for another rouge, but the ball stayed in the centre of the field for the rest of the period. Shortly before the end of the game, Matthews was knocked out, and retired.

Final score McGill 13 Loyola 0.

PRICES AFFECT COLLEGES.

American universities and colleges have been brought into "serious difficulties" by the rise in prices caused by the war, according to a joint appeal by President Hadley of Yale, President Hibben of Princeton and President Lowell of Harvard, made public recently.

Writing "loyal support" of all institutions of learning, the statement declared that "professors, never highly paid, find their salaries are not enough to enable them to live in reasonable comfort and educate their children." The observation is made that the situation is grave because "it means the impossibility of recruiting men of the calibre required for teaching youth."

BIG MEETING OF B. W. AND F. MEN

85 Men Signed Up From First and Second Years.

At a meeting held last night in the Union, the B. W. and F. Club got away for a fine start. "Dad" Lamb presided over the affair. In a few words he explained the kind of man the club demands. All names of first and second year men were taken, together with their faculties. The magnitude of the list exceeded all membership records of previous years. These men, along with those who intend joining from other years will make this club the most popular of the University.

The president of the Union has placed the big hall room at the disposal of the club, and it makes ideal training quarters. The schedule for boys, unless notice to the contrary is published, will be Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, from 5.15 to 6.15 p.m. The fencing schedule will be published later.

George Smith has been secured as trainer for the boxers and wrestlers, and it is certain that he will put a winning team in the inter-collegiate assault-at-arms. An assistant trainer for boxing may work with him.

Smokers throughout the term will be with various clubs of the city. It will be arranged also that teams from American Universities will meet McGill here.

All particulars concerning the opening of the club will be published later in the Daily.

MEDS. VICTORS IN STRENUOUS GAME

Inter-Faculty Game A Close Contest Throughout.

In a game that was fought from beginning to end, Medicine defeated Science after a hard struggle at the Stadium yesterday afternoon in an inter-faculty game to the tune of 2-0. As the score indicates, the game was very closely contested and both teams were evenly matched, with Medicine, however having enough of the advantage to come out on top.

The fact that the ground was in a heavy, muddy condition, due to the recent weather, probably accounts for the numerous fumbles, both sides being equally at fault in this respect. In spite of the slow going however, a good brand of rugby was put up, many long runs being ripped off at various times. A notable feature of the game was the support that Medicine enthusiasts gave their team by their cheering.

The only score of the game was made immediately after the beginning of the second quarter, when Science, who had possession of the ball only a yard in front of their own line, attempted a kick. Medicine, however managed to break through and block the punt, and Science, narrowly escaping a touch down, secured the ball behind their line, being downed for a safety touch. This proved enough to lose the game for them, as during the remainder of the play, the Meds, although somewhat hard pressed at times, succeeded in keeping their opponents from counting any points.

For the winning team, Allen undoubtedly did the best all-round work, being equally good in offense and defence. Davis also played well. Several times he broke up the kicks in good style. Lashley did the punting for Medicine, and was given ample protection by the line. In this respect, Science was inferior, as several times their line failed to hold, thus enabling their opponents to block kick. In fact, it was this weakness that caused them to lose the playing of both teams in other departments of the game being about equal.

The outstanding star of the game for Science, was probably Eric Parsons, who time and again got away to spectacular runs, many times making twenty and thirty yard gains. Fowler also played well. Davis did the punting, but he did not receive good support from his line.

In the first period, Science got away to several large gains, right at the start, and worked the ball down the field, but in attempting to kick the ball went into the endmange. Allen managed to grab it, and ran fifty yards before he was stopped. Following this, Medicine made some small gains. Finally, just before the end of the period, Lashley booted one that was caught by Science almost on their own goal line.

Immediately after the start of the second quarter Medicine pressed their advantage to the utmost, and by breaking through and blocking an attempted kick, managed to score a safety touch, thus securing the lead which was sufficient to win the game for them. Following this, the play saw-sawed up and down, keeping generally in the centre of the field, till S. Davis ran around the side for a spectacular thirty yard dash. This brought Science to their opponents quarter line. They punted across the line to Macdonald, who ran the ball in front, thus preventing any scoring. Immediately afterwards, half-time was called.

The third quarter opened with Science kicking off. They lost the ball, however, for being offside. Medicine kicked, and E. Parsons got away to a twenty yard run that was stopped by a good tackle by Davis. Shortly after this Davis fell on a loose ball, but Medicine failed to gain, losing it to their opponents. Following this, there was an exchange of punts that gave neither team any advantage. The period ended with Science in possession of the ball due to a fumble by Medicine.

During the fourth quarter, Science tried desperately to score but all their efforts were unsuccessful, due largely to the greater steadiness of the winning team. Eric Parsons made several good runs, one for a gain of forty yards being especially brilliant. Twice the play approached the Meds. line, but the latter were equal to both occasions, always managing to get the ball out of danger, and time was called for the end of the game with the play ranging around the centre of the field.

The teams lined up as follows:—

A JOKE.

A member of a national medical association tells the following story at the expense of a physician:

"Are you sure," an anxious patient shall recover? I have heard that doctors have sometimes given wrong diagnosis and treated a patient for pneumonia who afterward died of typhoid fever."

"You have been woefully misinformed," replied the physician indignantly. "If I treat a man for pneumonia, he dies of pneumonia."—Harper's.
